1. The purpose of this manual is to provide a comprehensive guide to the information security policies and procedures of the Department of Defense. It is intended for use by all personnel who are responsible for the protection of information. 2. This manual is organized into several sections, each of which covers a different aspect of information security. The sections are: General Principles, Classification and Control, Physical Security, Personnel Security, Information Security, and Security of Information Systems. 3. It is the policy of the Department of Defense to protect information from unauthorized disclosure, use, or modification. This policy is based on the principle of least privilege, which requires that individuals be granted only the minimum level of access necessary to perform their duties. 4. Information security is a continuous process that requires the constant vigilance of all personnel. It is the responsibility of every individual to report any suspected security breaches to the appropriate authorities.	5. This manual is a living document and will be updated as necessary to reflect changes in the Department of Defense's information security policies and procedures. It is the responsibility of the Information Security Office to maintain the accuracy and relevance of this manual. 6. The Information Security Office is the central authority for all information security matters within the Department of Defense. It is responsible for the development, implementation, and enforcement of information security policies and procedures. 7. All personnel are required to read and understand this manual and to comply with its provisions. Failure to do so may result in disciplinary action.
